BURKE SWINGS TO LA CROSSE MAN

ESCH GAINS VOTE OF GREEN BAY ASSEMBLYMAN

BRIBERY TALK MERE GOSSIP

Feeling That Candidate Will Profit By Attempt to Besmirch His Campaign.

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—(Special).—The vote on senator at noon resulted: Esch, 20; Hatten, 25; Stephenson, 21; Bird, 15; McGregor, 23; Rummell, 4; Thompson, 1; Frear 1; Palmer, 1; Hazelwood, 1. Esch gained one vote, that of Assemblyman Burke of Green Bay.

Ekern for Stephenson

It is said on the authority of a senator whose identity was not disclosed, that Speaker Ekern has interceded with McGregor to throw his vote and influence to Stephenson. This McGregor declined to do.

Probably Mere Gossip

There is an air of mystery surrounding the bribery gossip. The identity of those promulgating it has not ben fixed. Its effect, were it substantiated, is hard to measure, but if the impression gains well founded ground that the stories were circulated to hurt Stephenson and had not a real basis, it is believed the result would be to crystalize sentiment in favor of the Marinette man. Silence concerning the subject is taken to mean that there is no justification for the allegations of fraud.

Caucus Helps "Mac"

Only three changes of no consequence marked the senatorial contest last evening and after two ballots the meeting adjourned.

On the first ballot Assemblyman Sorenson left Stephenson and voted for McGregor, the dark horse candidate. Assemblyman Bell and Senator Lockney also voted for McGregor. The final ballot stood. Stephenson, 26; Esch, 18; Hatten, 20; Owen, 1; Frear, 1, and H. L. Palmer, 1. Assemblyman Kay left McGregor to vote for Frear. Grassie voted for Palmer, the colored assemblyman from Milwaukee.

An attempt is now being made to break Stephenson to McGregor who, they are arguing, will be a compromise candidate. McGregor's record, however, has been anything but compromising, he has been a firm adherant of La Follette and a factor in the reform movement in the past four yearsc. His highest strength as figured by the Haten men is 30 votes and unless Stephenson will come to his help there can be no hope for him. Esch is expected to gain if the following of McGregor makes a break.

Adjournment Uncertain

A resolution fixing the date of adjournment of the legislature as May 29 was up for consideration this morning. It was finally tabled after a lengthy discussion, fear being felt that certain elements proposed in this manner to definitely prevent the accomplishment of important business.

Bill Covers Ground

So far the only criticism directed against the public utility bill is that it has no specfic provision against the watering of stock. The authors of the bill declare that this is needless since the measure provides that the active valuation of the plant shall be made and rates shall be based on this. No man would be foolish enough they declare to purchase stock which had been watered and which would not be counted in the actual valuation.

Concentration Wanted

The reason this specific provision against watering was left out was that the attention of the legislators might be centered on the proposition of complete regulation, with no side complaints. So this feature was omitted from the bill but has been incorporated in a separate measure on the subject, introduced by Assemblyman T. M. Thomas. His bill applies to all public utilities and provides specific penalities for watering.

If the public utility bill passes and not the Thomas bill there will be sufficient safeguards to prevent any great amount of watering. If both bills pass the leverage against the companies it will be all the stronger. Hearings on the public service measure will start Wednesday afternoon this week.

COREY RAVES AT NEWSPAPER MEN

THREATENS TO SMASH THEIR CAMERAS AT PIER

$5,000,000 BRIDE QUIETS HIM

President of Steel Corporation Weds Former Actress Just After Midnight, Today

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Coreys sailed at 7 o'clock this morning. On the pier Corey became enraged at the newspaper men and photographers and threatened to break their cameras. Miss Mabelle Gilman, to whom he was married after midnight, calmed him and he said, "I wish you and all New York good luck."

The ceremony uniting in marriage the president of the steel trust and the former dancing actress took place at 12:35 o'clock this morning in the royal suite of the Hotel Gotham.

The hour was arranged so that the fatal May 13 might be avoided. The twenty-five guests to the $5,000 wedding feast gathered at 11 o'clock and at 11:30 the dinner was served. It required an hour. It was an elaborate affair. No time was lost after the feast. The marriage service was brief.

A. A. Corey, Jr., brother of W. Ellis Corey, was best man. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. A. A. Thomas of McKeesport, Pa.

Gives Bride $1,000,000

Monday afternoon Corey transferred $1,000,000 to Mabelle Gilman as the wedding gift. This great fortune is in the shape of United States Steel and bank stocks and bonds.

The transfer is absolute and it stands in Miss Gilman's name. A lawyer, acting for Mr. Corey and the officers of a Nassau street trust company, took care of the legal and business forms connected with the gift, which is in addition to all the presents Mr. Corey has made his fiancee since they became engaged.

Added to what he gave his former wife when she divorced him and what he has given his parents to reconcile them to the match, Mr. Corey has paid out in the neighborhood of $6,000,000 because of his love for the former chorus girl.

Flowers by Wagonload

Monday was a busy day for the employes and management of the Hotel Gotham. The royal suite, for which Mr. Corey paid $130 for the evening, consists of five rooms, including dining room ,reception room and dressing rooms. Wagon loads of flowers were used in decorating these rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey will be absent three months, during which time they will make a tour of the principal watering places of Europe.

Mrs. Corey No. 1 was in New York during the ceremony, but was not present.

Although Mabelle Gilman has declared that C. B. Gilman, San Francisco, is not her father, he sent the following telegram to her last night:

"Accept a father's blessing for happiness and a long married life. Live up to Christian Science."

Following are the synopses of the various acts of the drama in real life that reached its climax last night in the marriage of W. E. Corey and Mabelle Gilman:

I—EXPLANATION

Social flurry among the plain people of Braddock, Pa. Young William Ellis Corey runs away with pretty Laura Cook, member of his mother's household. They return bride and groom. Start housekeeping in a four-room cottage.

Ellis earns their bread at $1 a day job at the Edgar Thompson steel works. Happy as two turtle doves.

Young wife works hard all day and greets with kiss sooty-faced young husband returning with empty dinner pail. He hands her pay envelope every Saturday night. Wife gets legacy of a few hundred dollars. Buys first custom made suit of clothes for Ellis. Also a little house of their own.

In love with her? Well, there's a story that he wanted to die because she was very ill.

II—APPLICATION

Progress of an ambitious youth. Corey, happily married, practices self-help, studies steel in laboratory, where he's helper, and gets better job in Carnegie works at Homestead, Pa. At 21 he is superintendent of the armor plant.

Already rival of Charles Schwab and close on his footsteps. Carnegie picks him as one of his young men, the crop of future Pittsburg millionaires.

Up, up, up through the Carnegie works and then the United States steel corporation. Laura—loving wife and mother of his child—cheers him on.

III—REALIZATION

The Coreys at home in a palace. Laura, now matron in prime of life, sees her highest hopes and confi-

SENSATIONAL CAPERS OF MARKET NOT DISASTROUS

A WILD, AND UNSTEADY DAY

Close Found Rumors and Predictions of Failures of Big Houses Unfulfilled

CHICAGO, Ill., May 14.—Wheat opened in the Chicago pit this morning in a manner wild, irregular and unsettled, with frequent predictions that before noon some large firms would announce their assignment. One broker, caught short yesterday by a call for margins on 10 per cent, was forced to buy a half million bushels on the market. The greatest excitement prevails, and reports abound of big houses tottering. The trading is light, brokers fearing to get in. The movement concentrated on July which opened with a rush at 96¼ and shot to 97½ but broke before 10 o'clock to 96. Liverpool was lower and reports from the spring wheat districts were more encouraging, oats and corn are stronger.

All financial institutions passed the clearing house safely, which is unprecedented considering the wild market of the past few days. The market has steadied down.

OPEN GOLF SEASON

LOCAL TOURNAMENT PLANNED FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial day will be the opening day at the Schaghticoke Country club. A special tournament is being arranged for that date, and a large list of entries is already secured. The tournament will be made up entirely of local players.

This season promises to be the best in the history of the club, and members are taking hold of the work of reorganization for the summer, with renewed interest and vim.

Three outside tournaments will be held this summer and probably others will be arranged later on in the season. The first will be held with Winona. Others will be held with Madison and Minneapolis.

A new steam roller has been ordered and the grounds will be rolled down and put in good shape for the summer as soon as this arrives. Other improvements will be made about the grounds.

A new 20 foot porch has been erected at the front of the club house which is a very attractive improvement. Mrs. Smith has been re-engaged as cateress for the coming summer and will be at the club house after next week.

Arrangements are being made with the La Crosse Street Railway company for a regular street car service there this summer. It is thought that the company can be persuaded to run all cars on the cemetery line as far as the grounds.

The club now numbers over 300 members.

AUDITORIUM OR A BIG ARMORY?

COMMITTEE IS DIVIDED ON THIS PROPOSITION

HOLD MEETING ON SATURDAY

Members of Party Which Investigated Buildings Will Hear Claims of Holway and Others

Saturday evening a meeting of the auditorium committee from the city council and city will be held at the small council chamber in the city hall, for the purpose of considering plans and formulating a report for the next meeting of the council. The meeting was called this morning by Alderman Gus Keller, chairman of the committee.

The committee which made the trip to Minneapolis and St. Paul for the purpose of inspecting the armories and auditoriums of those cities consists of Aldermen Keller, Hirshheimer and Valentine from the council; L. Coleman and ex-Mayor Wm. Torrance from the city, and John Dengler and Fred Copeland of the board of trade. In addition to the committee Colonel Orlando Holway of the National guard and Mayor Anderson will be present.

It is expected that some definite action will be taken at the meeting and some ideas secured as to just what is wanted. As it now stands the committee appears to be somewhat divided on the proposition as to what the new building will consist of, whether a large auditorium is wanted or a large armory. An outline of the plans for the armory has been given to the committee, relating in detail what is wanted. It is over this the division of opinion occurs, a number believing that in devoting so much to an armory the auditorium will suffer.

WEBBER JURY IS STILL OUT

No Verdict Reached at 3 O'Clock This Afternoon in Alleged Hold-up Case in Circuit Court.

The jury in the case of Reinie Webber, accused of a daring holdup on the corner of State and Second street on the night of December 30, had not returned a verdict by 3:30 this afternoon after being out since 11:30.

Despite strong circumstantial evidence against him, and the direct testimony of many members of the police department and others, Webber this afternoon proved an alibi. A disagreement of the jury is looked for.

BADGER TANNERS STRIKE

KENOSHA, Wis., May 14.—Twelve hundred foreigners employed at the Allen tannery struck today. The operators blame the agitators and claim they called the men out giving no reason beyond saying it was a "sympathy strike," not even saying for whom the sympathy was intended.

Miss Anna Petrick of Winona has departed for her home after a pleasant stay of a few days with Mrs. Phillip Martin.

CARBON EMITS DEADLY FUMES

REMINGTON TYPEWRITER FIRE PROVES FATAL

FIFTY FIREMEN MAY DIE

Piles of Carbon Stored in Basement Smoulders While Poisonous Fumes Surround Firemen

NEW YORK, May 14.—Fifty firemen were overcome today while fighting one of the worst fires this department has had to contend with in years. The building burned was occupied by the Remington Typewriter company, on Broadway, and it is feared a number of men may die from the effects of breathing the fumes. The flames started in a cellar where great piles of carbon paper were stored. The paper only smouldered, sending the poisonous fumes through the upper floors. There was increasing danger as the water was poured on. The fire was confined to the lower part of the building and the property loss is not great.

BANKRUPTCY CASE

EAU CLAIRE LITIGATION IN CIRCUIT COURT THIS AFTERNOON

A jury was called and impaneled this afternon, in the case of C. M. Hilliard as trustee in the bankruptcy case of Charles A. Johnson, a bankrupt, vs. the Eau Claire Grocery company, a corporation.

The case is brought here from Eau Claire. Richmond, Jackmon and Swanson of that city represent the plaintiff, and W. E. Plummer is attorney for the defendant. The case will probably not be heard before tomorrow. No new criminal case has been called as none of them were ready for trial this afternoon.

TELLS OF WIFE'S SUICIDE

St. Louis Publisher Greatly Shocked Over the Death of His Spouse

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Daniel M. Houser, president of the Globe Printing company, publisher of the Globe-Democrat, made a sworn statement here before Deputy Coroner Lloyd yesterday afternoon regarding the suicide of his wife. He said that she had threatened "in a burst of passion" to take her life, but that he had not taken such remarks seriously. Mr. Houser did not say when she made this threat. He declared that no member of the family knew where she procured the revolver with which she shot herself at the family home, 4345 West Pine boulevard, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Houser, who is 73 years old, showed plainly the effect of the deep shock caused by his sudden bereavement.

Deputy Coroner Lloyd, after returning to his office, announced his verdict as suicide due to insomnia and nervous prostration.

PRESIDENT GOES AFTER THE DOUBTFUL STATES

THOUGHTRAG-BOUND STUMP DEAD BODIES

RIVERMEN DRAG PECULIAR OBJECT FROM RIVER

BODIES HAVE NOT BEEN FOUND

Fishermen With Drag Hooks at Lower End of Pettibone Island are Fooled By Snags.

An old stump, about which was wound a lot of old rags was dragged to the surface of the water three times, and lost each time by fishermen dragging the river last night and this morning for the bodies of William Van Camp and Mrs. Rose Wright, who were drowned in the wind storm Sunday afternoon. A report that the bodies had been found quickly spread, but when the fishermen at last succeeded in getting the obstruction near enough the surface with their hooks to examine it closely, the deception was discovered.

Last evening fishermen were dragging the river with grappling hooks in the vicinity of the lower end of Pettibone island, where a large sandbar is formed. The object was caught for the first time just before midnight. They were unable to secure it, so marking the spot the search was renewed this morning. It was pulled up twice more, but proved elusive and it was only with the greatest difficulty it was secured.

The search for the bodies was continued during the day, but up to a late hour this afternoon they had not been recoverd.

Diver Hoffman was at work yesterday, but did not find any trace of the bodies. Mrs. A. J. Johnson, 1222 Winnebago and Mrs. E. Schoville, Twelfth and Main, sisters of Van Camp, and Mr. M. H. Van Camp, father of the dead man, have offered a $50 reward for the body. They were about the river bank yesterday, tearfully watching the progress of the work, but helpless to aid in the seemingly fruitless effort.

ROOSEVELT LAYS ELABORATE PLANS

BACKFIRES AGAINST THE "FAVORITE SON" PLAY

WOULD ELIMINATE OPPOSITION

La Follette and Fairbanks Exceptions With Hughes Taft's Stumbling Block

(By J. C. Welliver).

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—(Special).—The "big states" are being looked after with especial zeal by the administration in its conduct of the Taft presidential movement. By "big states" is meant particularly New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio and Illinois. Massachusetts as the leader of New England is considered to possess a significance quite out of proportion to its bunch of votes in a nominating convention.

Secretary Taft's coming trip to Iowa is also significant of a considerable interest in that state. The president sets great store by Iowa. He knows it is devoted to him, and he considers it a remarkably accurate index of western opinion. He knows that Iowa is the mother of half the communities west of the Missouri. He knows it is wealthy and conservative, yet always loyal to his progressive program. He hopes that it may get in line early for Taft, and encourage such a movement in other states of the big northwest.

Massachusetts presents an undeniably difficult problem in management because of the attitude of Senator Crane, who is regarded as one of the chief conspirators against the program of perpetuating Roosevelt policies. Crane is a power in Massachusetts. As a governor there he was distinctively of the progressive type. As senator he has been regarded as of the opposite sort. But his people have confidence in him, and the state will go as he wants it to go unless special and determined efforts are made to change its direction.

Fears "Favorite Sons"

The president sees most danger to his program in the "favorite son" that ahs for many years been used by the machine politicians as the basis of their manipulation of conventions. Around the banner of a favorite son the politicians of each state have been able to gather their supporters; the "right men" could be put on the delegations; and then when all the favorite son movements were shaken up in the by the assembled politicians in national convention, they could agree on the man most serviceable to the largest number, and nominate him.

The president fears that move at this time more than anything else. He recognizes that the favorite son in each particular case is quite likely to be innocent of any part further than an honest desire to try out his own chances. But, because he realizes that the local candidate is the politician's refuge, the president proposes to keep the local candidates out of it. He is going to demand Taft indorsements from just as many states as possible; and in those which will not give indorsements this early to Taft, he will permit his friends to go ahead and adopt strong indorsements of the Roosevelt administration and policies, with demands that these policies be carried farther in the coming sessions of congress. Thus the third-term movement and the Taft boom are liable to be found working in double harness to the confusion of opponents. Apparently no favorite son except Fairbanks and La Follette are to be permitted an unopposed home indorsement; there is no opposition to letting these two have it.

La Follette Would Dodge

There is of course the possibility of using second place on the ticket to bring some one of the favorite-son states into camp. Massachusetts might get the place for Guild, New York could have it for Hughes, or Iowa could get it for Cummins. There has been talk, too, of La Follette in this connection. He would give the ticket a touch of real, miltant, constructive progressiveness that a good many people think it will need in order to convince the country that a Taft administration will push Roosevelt policies with the same ardor as Roosevelt. But nobody imagines that La Follette would take second place on the ticket. Reports which come east concerning his lecturing tour in the Pacific states this summer have caused more inquiry as to whether he may not yet be a larger presidential factor than the east has seen fit to rate him. He is said to be having a triumphal progress through the coast states, and to be receiving many assurances of enthusiasm and support. More than this, he is traveling with his private secretary, Colonel John J. Hannan, as a member of his menage, and Colonel Hannan is widely known in the northwest as a politician of

POOR SPORTS DISCOURAGE MEN

HOOTED AT THE HOME TEAM

Champs Had an Off Day and the Result Was a Roasting. Expect to See All the Games Won

Nothing will discourage a ball player more than to have his home fans call him down when he is experiencing an off day. They all have them, those in the big leagues and those in the minor leagues and when the home fans take the occasion to turn their rooting into a roasting it denotes poor sportsmanship.

Such an occasion it was at League park yesterday afternoon and those fans who sat out there and called the players "dubs" and hurled such things at them as "rotten," "wake up," "you must have been out all night,", and many others of like nature should not be allowed the privilege of witnessing a game, if it did ilege of witnesing a game. It stands to reason that a team cannot win every game it plays, if it did the league would be broken up. Yet these fans of yesterday are the kind who expect to see the champs clean up everything in sight, and the minute they lose a game they are second raters and everything else in the dictionary of base balldom. Shortstop Cuppy was the target of most of the assault yesterday, simply because he erred on the first ball hit to him and failed to hit Lang, the magnificient twirler for Wausau. At that Cuppy played a better game than the majority of his fellow players, having nine chances with only one error. If the fans would sit and ponder awhile they would see the injustice of their remarks.

THE DOPE BOX

Catcher Ericson, who was with Freeport last year has been released by the Toledo American association club to Peoria in the Three-I league.

Freeport ball players are mourning the loss of their grand stand and all their belongings in the fire of Saturday night. The Freeport papers attribute the loss of Sunday's game to the fire.

Tommy Tennant, formerly of Green Bay, is playing great ball for Decatur in the Three-I league. He is hitting hard and fielding fine.

Schneiberg, last year's champ, pitched for Milwaukee yetserday. Although hit hard his team won out by a batting rally in the ninth.

A most peculiar story is told of a game in the Iowa league last week in which a sparrow was taken for a ball. The ball was hit down the third base line and lodged under the third sack. Just as the baseman went after the ball a sparrow came along, flying close to the ground. The player took after the bird thinking it was the ball. Before the ball was located two men had secored.

Rube Waddell, the eccentric wonder of the Philadelphia club, struck his stride again yesterday and let the world's champs down with three hits.

Dubuque is hugging the bottom with a vengance in the Three-I league, having won only one game out of nine.

Freeport papers say that the Oshkosh team does not look like a pennant winner. This was stated after Oshkosh won Sunday.

The game New York is playing in the National league is a little unexpected. They now lead the league one game ahead of Chicago.

Roy Converse, who pitched for Oshkosh yesterday, played part of last season with Rock Island and finished the season with Ottumwa in the Iowa State league.

La Crosse is scheduled to play seven more games at home before departing on a circuit trip. Green Bay comes tomorrow for three, to be followed by Oshkosh.

Warhop, he of the Freeport club, is credited with twenty-two strikeouts in the game with Oshkosh yesterday. At that he didn't win, the game going 11 innings to a tie, 1 to 1.

SHOULD STAND THE ROASTING

Quinn Resents Remarks and Waits Rooters After the Game

(By Lefty).

Outfielder Quinn cannot stand any jollying from the bleachers,something a ball player should be able to do in any case. Yesterday a party of traveling men from the Stoddard attended the game and rooted for Wausau. When Quinn came to bat they jollied him to such an extent that he turned and replied in an angry tone that he would meet them after the game. After the game he did wait and when the men came out asked them to go behind the fence and have it out. Manager Hawley also took it up. The fact of the matter was there was nothing to get angry over and even if there was it wouldn't be the place for a ball player to resent anything in such a manner.

Unless a man is willing to do something he will amount to nothing.

(By Lefty.)

Large, fat and juicy, and awfully sour, was the lemon handed to the fans at League park on that bright and warm Monday afternoon of May 13. It made them pucker up their mouths in ugly grimaces and cast unpleasant things diamondward where those Champs were moving around in an atmosphere of bewilderment, seemingly in a nightmare and unable to awake to the occasion. Plainly told, Wausau had the game handed to it on a platter all trimmed with delicacies of the ball field, the count being 11 to 1.

Even the Champs of two seasons can fall off their dignity and come under the observation of those poor sports who root when the team is winning and roast them when they strike a bad day. It was such a case yesterday. The Champs were seemingly under a spell and wobbles, boots, and poor judgment was in evidence at all stages of the game, poor Mr. Baillies being made to suffer much discomfiture in his debut in state league ball. He was handed a terrible jolt in the first inning when three "Lumber Jacks" trotted home without even as much as making a safe drive. Think of it and Baillies pitching his first game. The first ball was hit to Cuppy and he played with it until Kroy reached first. A sacrifice hit with errors by Konetchy and Moore and a crack in the ribs to Brady did the business. A few more errors distributed with a few hits kept the visitors chasing men over the plate all the rest of the game.

Strikes Out Fourteen

There was one bright, shining feature to the lopsided contest, however, the great pitching of Frank Lang, the star of Ferguson's staff. He made fourteen Champs swing idly in the air and allowed but three hits, one of these being a two sacker by Konetchy which was accountable for the lone tally. It looked much like Lang would get a no hit game for awhile, not a hit being made off him until the sixth, then Big Ed captured the double. He took third on an infield out and scored when Moore hit one to McAuley and that sandy haired gentleman heaved it just high enough to pull Ferguson off the sack and let Moore reach the bag. Score:

Fodder for Fans

Oh, well, no matter. Be not harsh, they all do it.

The last game of the series is being played today. Green Bay here tomorrow.

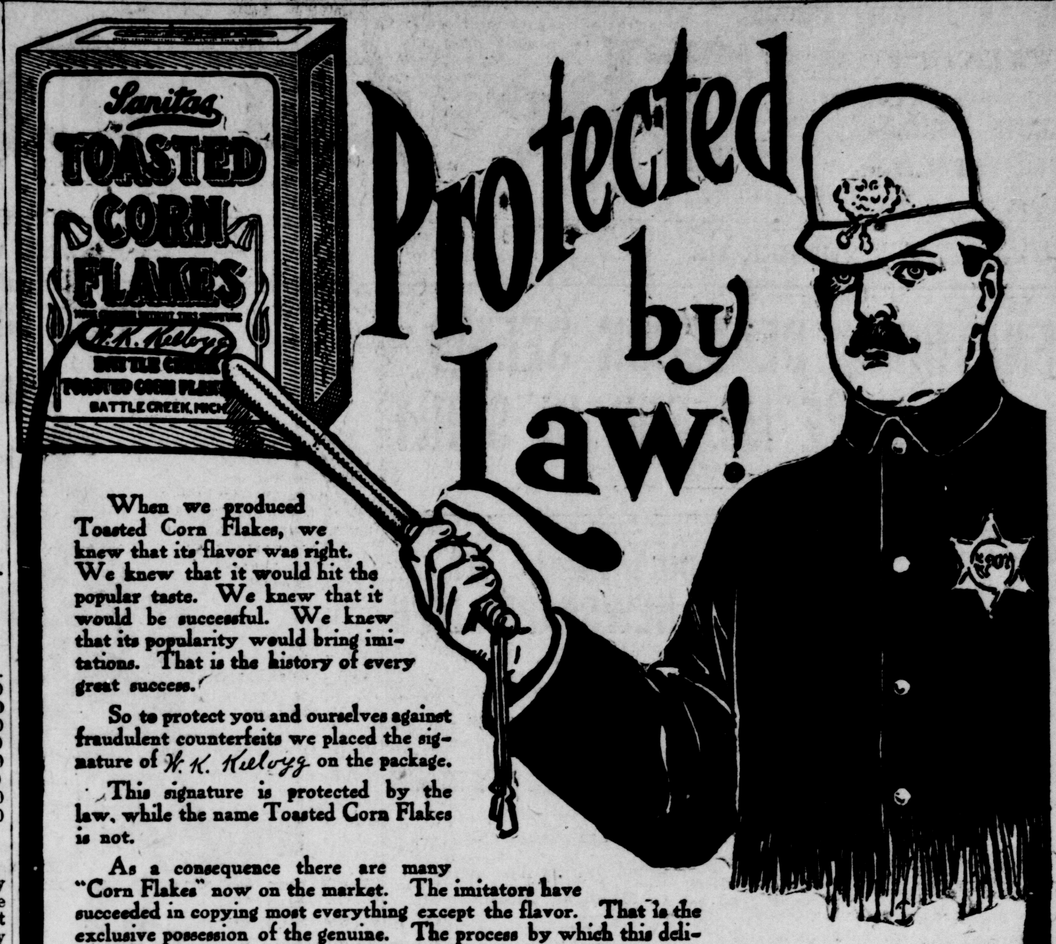

Even Daddy Cahill made an error. Daddy dropped a lovely fly in center field.

That man Lang had every one of the Champs but Konetchy hypnotized. Cuppy struck out four times, Vogt three times and Moore twice. In the midst of all this Konetchy batted perfectly. He drew three bases on balls and made one hit.

Ferguson retired in the seventh inning because of a game limb. Todd played the rest of the game at first.

"Bumpus" Jones officiated in the absence of a regular official. He gave satisfaction to all concerned.

FOR HONEST DEALING

Our purpose in republishing the editorial that appears below from the Philadelphia North American is to endorse it. It is true. Readers of newspapers know it is true. The utterances of this great journal adversely criticizing the publication of advertisements used to promote schemes that are palpably fraudulent deserve repetition in every honest newspaper. Whether it be a fake medicine or a fake mine, no honest publisher can knowingly disseminate it. Equally obnoxious is the sale of unmeritorious substitutes for standard articles, for there the fraud not only wrongs the owner of the staple that he has spent money to advertise, but injures the purchaser as well. So like the business policy of THE TRIBUNE is that advocated by the North American, that we experience a genuine pleasure in reproducing the editorial in full:

"Confidence, the basis of all business success, is peculiarly the foundation of a newspaper's prosperity and influence. It is to establish public confidence in its sincerity that The North American has worked; upon that it has been able to build, and upon the maintenance of it depends the journal's future usefulness and power. If there is, then, an influence working to undermine that confidence, or to weaken in any degree the newspaper's capacity for serving its readers, self-defense, as well as higher motives, prompt vigorous action.

"Therefore we propose to use editorial space for the discussion of an evil which not only touches every sort of business, including newspaper publishing, and enters every home, but directly interferes with the proper functions of a public journal as a servant of the people. That evil is known as substitution—the disreputable practice of selling counterfeits of standard articles, or persuading unwary customers to buy articles "just the same as" or "just as good as" those they have designated.

If this, from the standpoint of a newspaper, is a busines question, it is also a moral question. A newspaper, if it be worthy of the name, is much more than a business venture. Its character confers upon it wide latitude of action and imposes heavy obligations. Its duty is not only to inform its readers, but to promote and protect their interests, and it fails to perform that duty if it connives at fraud.

"It is for these reasons that The North American rejects about $75,000 to $100,000 worth of advertising each year; that it refuses to print at any price the announcements of "wild cat" financial schemes, of questionable medical concerns, and of other projects palpably fraudulent, objectionable or deceptive, even though the same advertisements are published in contemporaries.

"Every newspaper with self-respecting ambition must do this. Never was the public press a more potential factor in civilization than today; yet we believe—and this view is shared by leading publishers all over the country—that the influence of the press is less than it ought to be because newspapers do not guard their advertising departments as jealously as they do their editorial departments.

"Some newspaper managers and editors impose rigid standards of honesty upon their editorial columns, but are careless about the tone and accuracy of their news columns; many give careful scrutiny to both of these but are utterly indifferent to the character of the advertising they carry. Yet we are persuaded that the obligation of honor in editorial and news treatment is no more binding than it is in the publishing of advertisements. Newspapers like The North American protect both themselves and their readers by exercising a liberal censorship over their advertising columns.

"Fraudulent advertising, then, is an enemy of newspaper influence which can be stamped out. But the evil of substitution is beyond a journal's control. It can be combated only through the co-operation of the public.

"That it fosters distrust and dissatisfaction, part of which reacts on the newspaper, cannot be gainsaid. The North American, for example, permits its advertising space to be used for exploitation of such articles only as it deems worthy of confidence. They are standard goods. Their excellence is beyond question. Many of them have stood the test of time, and those which are new are entitled to the test. Their advertisement in our columns gives more than the force of purchased publicity—it puts back of them the character of the newspaper.

"Impelled by such an advertisement, a reader often goes to purchase a standard article, and through the cajolery of an unprincipled tradesman or clerk has unloaded upon him a cheap counterfeit under the plea that it is "just as good." Deliberately, the tradesman perpetrates a fraud; unconsciously, the customer assists in it, and is himself a victim; and both the advertiser and the newspaper suffer.

"Substitution has become an evil of such universal practice that newspapers which aim to enforce honesty in their advertising columns are embarrassed. The retail buyer is confronted with bold counterfeits in soaps, perfumes, drugs, medicines, paints, varnishes, cloths, trimmings, corsets, hardware, food products, liquors, and, indeed, in nearly every kind of article in common use.

"We protest against this, not only on behalf of the manufacturers of standard goods, but on behalf of honest newspapers and deluded customers."

OF THE VALUE OF HARMONY

The time to fight is when a caucus belii exists. It is a duty to wage war, sometimes. It is equally a duty to stop fighting when the principle involved has been won or the justification for the controversy is removed. That has been and will continue to be the policy of THE TRIBUNE. It will never hesitate to enlist in a good cause. It will, "Beware of quarrels, but being in, bear that the opposed beware." It will never pursue a profitless jangle nor continue aggression for which the necessity has been removed. It will never make capital out of the things it has accomplished, at the expense of the general public weal. It realizes that harmony is of immense value, conflict so injurious as to be justified only by the existence of an evil the eradication of which is of vital importance to the community. That which is predatory, but impotent, will not be dignified with attention. That which is best for the common good will engage all the activities of THE TRIBUNE. It will fight no battles over. It will engage in no ill advised controversies lacking incentive other than opportunity for selfish agrandizement.

BALLOONS FOR THE ARMY

(From the Washington Star.)

Americans may soon read of the "Balloon corps, U. S. A.", "Detachment of aerial engineers, U. S. A."; "flying-machine squad," "sky scouts," "cloud pickets," or something like this, for the news of the day shows that the government has purchased $12,000 worth of balloons and that an aerial station has been established at Fort Omaha, Neb. It is given out that three balloons will soon be shipped to this station, that more will follow, and that a hydrogen gas tank has been built to supply the big bags. The experiments with these balloons are to be under direction of General James S. Allen of the signal corps.

European powers have been busy with the balloon question for a long time, and American military observers have not had their eyes shut. Doubtless the military branch of this government has learned much by the experiments of other nations.

Expert observation has been profitable to this country. The navy department jumped from the civil war type of war ship construction to the up-todate type, unless the building of the ships Boston, Chicago and Atlanta be classed as an intermediate or experimental step. In this matter of submarines this government progresses at one bound from submarines on paper and in theory to submarines of approved type in practice. This was true of torpedo boats and destroyers.

The eys of the army have been kept on the experiments of foreign governments with artillery and small arms.

The result of this alertness has been the saving of untold millions of dollars. The artillery branch of the army progressed at one step from Napoleon of the civil war to the 3.2-inch breech-loading Rock Island field piece, and has recently discarded this weapon for the three-inch rifle of German model. It is believed that the new field piece and the new Springfield rifle are unexcelled in accuracy, range and rapidity of fire.

From the time of the civil war to the creation of the Endicott board the fortifications of the United States were absudly antique, and were armed with the columbiads, mortars and other civil war types of ordnance. In some cases these iron guns had been converted into rifle breech-loaders. But at one stroke the ordnance of the forts was brought up to date. And so were the forts themselves.

It is reasonable to believe that the army in a few months will be abreast of the armies of France and Germany in the effective use of the balloon.

HARRIMAN CORRUPTION

Mr. Harriman proposes to issue $100,000,000 new stock of the Union Pacific besides $36,000,000 more of the Southern Pacific, which the Union Pacific controls.

No doubt bankers can be found to handle the deal for him on agreeable terms, as they have handled other deals for him in the past. But how about the public? Will it put any more of its money into Harriman stocks?

What Harriman control of the Union Pacific and other railroads means is no longer a secret. It means stock-jobbery and market manipulation for the benefit of an inside ring. It means juggling with the stockholders' property. It means barefaced defiance of common decency and statute law. If these are the methods that command confidence in Wall street they should not command the confidence of the plain investors who call their dollars their own.

The only way to restore the Union Pacific and so-called Harriman roads to financial respectability is to get rid of Harriman. Until the directors do their plain duty it is like calling the public a fool to ask it to buy more Harriman securities.—New York World.

THE TRIBUNE STORY

THE CAMERA HUNT

BY HONORE WILLSIE.

Penelope took a long breath and started on after her brother and his wife, who were chatting with the guide. After the rough climbing of the morning the little plateau seemed heavenly. But even this respite did not ease Penelope's sense of irritation.

Arthur's and Alice's fad had seemed so amusing at first that she had readily accepted their invitation to join them. To hunt the wild game of the Rockies with a camera was unique enough to be interesting, but the hunt of the long tailed deer, so high among the peaks that rapid work was misery, had been very bad. The three days' chase for a snap at the black wolf had been worse, and it ended in failure. But this chase for a mountain sheep was trying Penelope beyond endurance.

"It's easy for Alice," thought poor Penelope, digging her staff viciously into a crevice. "She's like a bundle of steel wires. She loves to get up before daylight and crawl half a mile on her hands and knees to wait at a spring for some silly beast to come for a drink. But I'm just worn out. Alice! Arthur!"

The three enthusiasts ahead turned back. "You three leave me here in the shade of this rock and come back for me when you are finished. I am worn out."

Arthur looked at Penelope in dismay. "But don't you want to see a mountain sheep?" he coaxed. "Since the black tailed deer were in the river bottom this morning the sheep are sure to be up here. Just think, Penelope, one of those curious, rare mountain sheep!"

But even this vision failed to move his sister. She shook her head. Alice gave a resigned little sigh.

"I'll stay with you, Penelope," she said.

"No, you won't," said Arthur hastily. "It's not safe. Two women are no better than one here."

Here the guide interposed. He had been with them but a day, but already, besides being their guide, he was their counselor and friend. He was too well bred to be treated otherwise. Penelope looked at the stalwart, heavily bearded fellow in a troubled way. His resemblance to Dick in spite of the beard was startling.

"Now, I tell you, Mr Seymore," he said, "you know as much about this business as I do, and you tell me you have been up this trail half a dozen times before. Why can't I stay here with your sister, fix up camp for the night and let Mr. and Mrs. Seymore go on and locate the sheep?"

"Good, good!" exclaimed Seymore.

Mrs. Seymore looked a little dubious, but Penelope spoke eagerly. Here was a chance for an hour or two of rest that was not to be foregone.

"It will only be a couple of hours," she said pleadingly. "You will be back before dark, and I am so tired, and," she added artfully, "you may miss your only chance at the mountain sheep."

"Come on, Arthur," said Mrs. Seymore, and the two started off up the mountain.

The little plateau on which the colloquy had taken place was smooth and wide, with a little spring trickling out of the great wall of the mountain. Penelope sat quietly watching the distant peaks in the afternoon light while the guide set about his preparation for the night's camp, watching Penelope surreptitiously the while. Very lovely was the sunlight on the masses of her hair, the quick glow of color in her cheeks, the delight in her eyes as she looked at the distant glory of the canyon walls.

Finally her gaze wandered to the guide as his work brought him close beside her, and again the troubled look came to her eyes.

"Do you know," she said abruptly, "you have a resemblance to some one I used to know that is startling."

The guide straightened himself and looked at her keenly. "Is that so?" he said in his quiet way.

Without knowing why, she added, "It was some one who was very dear to me."

"And now?" said the guide tentatively.

"There is no now," said Penelope, rising and walking toward the edge of the plateau.

The guide watched her anxiously. "Not too near the edge, please," he called.

Penelope did not answer. Far, far below curled the silvery line that was the river, then up and up chaos of color in the rock masses, and silence, silence so intense that, though every sense was keen to catch the brilliancy of the canyon coloring, Penelope stood counting her own heart beats. She leaned over a little to look at the ledge below her.

And then the thing happened—a sudden vertigo, a hoarse cry from behind her, a sense of endless falling, then unconsciousness.

After ages of nothingness she opened her eyes—far above, the sky with a glory of sun and snow, a grandeur of distant peaks and far horizon, then a sense of pain and with it a man's voice calling:

"Penelope! Penelope!" And above the brush grown ledge on which she lay a man's face looked down upon her.

"Here I am! I'm all right!" she called back weakly.

"Will you lie perfectly still while I get the rope?" called the guide. "For heaven's sake, don't move!" And the face disappeared, leaving Penelope alone with the blue above and the far circling of an eagle about the crags.

Then a rope with a carefully adjusted slip noose dangled beside her. "Can you put it over your head and under your arms?" the guide called. "For my sake, Penelope, be careful! And look up at me all the time. Don't look down into the canyon."

Too bruised and shaken to be surprised, Penelope took the noose with trembling fingers and tried to disentangle herself from the brush which had broken her fall. Slowly, inch by inch, with pain at every motion, she raised herself to a sitting position, then little by little adjusted the noose under her arms to the guide's satisfaction.

"Now," he called, "I'm going to lower your staff to you, and you must keep yourself from brushing the wall by means of it as I pull you up."

The fear and misery of that trip back to the plateau Penelope was never to forget. The rope cut into her chest until she would have fainted with the pain had not the difficulty of warding herself from the wall with her alpenstock forced her to keep her senses alert. Now, with a quick jerk, she was pulled upward for a few feet; then a pause, while the rope twisted her dizzily, with now a view of the serenity of the opposite canyon wall in the afternoon sun; now the yellow dampness of stone within an inch of her face, then another violent jerk upward.

As she paused within a foot or so of the plateau level she closed her eyes and dropped her staff. Then a pair of arms lifted her slowly, tenderly, and laid her on the ground, then carefully removed the rope.

Penelope opened her eyes. "Dick!" she said hesitatingly. "Dick!"

"Are you hurt?" asked the guide unheedingly. "What shall I do? Shall I go after your sister?"

"I think there are no bones broken," said Penelope weakly. "I am only terribly bruised and shaken. How I am to get down the mountain again I don't know."

"Oh, we can arrange that easily," answered the guide eagerly as he adjusted the steamer rug on which she lay.

Again Penelope's senses dimmed. "You do look so like Dick," she murmured. "Aren't you Dick? Only Dick was not so strong"—

"Tell me about Dick," said the guide, with a hand that trembled so that a cup of water he had brought sprinkled her gown.

Penelope looked at him with puzzled, half delirious eyes. "Dick? Why, Dick was my husband, and after we had our silly quarrel he went to Europe. That was three years ago."

The guide threw aside the cup. "Do you think it was a silly quarrel?" he cried. "Would you forgive Dick?"

"Yes," answered Penelope, "if only I could find him."

The guide stooped and lifted the slender, aching body into his arms. "Here I am, dear," he said. "Here is Dick! It was never Europe, after all. I came here, where I could work and be forgotten."

Penelope looked into his face, forgetting her pain in the wonder of it all. "I must have known it," she said, "in spite of the beard."

Then she closed her eyes on his shoulder. "Sheep hunting is not bad, after all," she said. And Dick held her close.

DEATH DUTIES IN ENGLAND

(London Daily Graphic.)

The chancellor of the exchequer's estimate of the net receipt into the exchequer from the death duties during the current financial year is £13,000,000, apart from the expected yield of £600,000 from the proposed increase of charge on estates over £150,000 and the proposed super tax on estates of more than a million each. The estimated receipt, which the last twelve years has been less by £8,500,000 than the actual receipt, will probably be again this year much less than the yield of the duties. The estimate is at the rate of £250,000 a week.

AN OLD-FASHIONED SENATOR

(Cleveland Leader.)

Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama occasionally writes magazine articles which involve a great deal of research, but he uniformly refuses to accept pay for them. In the course of his public career he has been offered innumerable railroad passes, but never accepted any either for himself or any member of his family. Though over 80 years old, he thinks nothing of working half the night. The senator never haunts the departments looking for jobs for constituents. Of moderate means when he entered the senate, he is now a poor man, having little or nothing but his salary.

Memory is the price one has to pay in this world for the mistakes he makes.

S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

There is no other part of our physical system upon which so much depends as upon the blood. The muscles, nerves, bones, sinews, skin, and other portions of the body are sustained, developed and enabled to perform their different duties, because they are supplied with nourishment and healthful properties through the circulation. In various ways the blood becomes contaminated and polluted. A sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, will leave the refuse and waste matter of the body to sour and form uric and other acids, which are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism, or some itching, disfiguring skin disease is the result. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, splotches, pimples, etc., all show that some humor has taken root in the circulation and rendered it sour and unfit for nourishing the body. There is scarcely any disease which cannot be traced to the blood. Often the disease-tainted blood of parents is handed down to children and their lives are a continual battle against disease in some form, usually of a scrofulous nature. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood troubles, and until this vital fluid is purified they cannot be cured. For all blood diseases S. S. S. is the best remedy ever put upon the market. This great medicine is made of roots, herbs and barks of recognized blood-purifying and building-up properties. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities and humors, supplies the blood with the healthful properties it needs and completely cures blood diseases of every kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., because it purifies the blood. Book on the blood and medical advice free.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES.

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei.

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The Hy-o-mei medication, laden with nature's remedies, is breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, reaching every part of the bronchial tubes and killing at once the disease germs. It allays all irritation and heals the inflammation of the mucous membrane with astonishing rapidity.

Treatment with sprays, douches and atomizers in bronchial troubles is condemned by the best physicians, as they cause further irritation.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air seems to soothe the inflammation, stop the cough, and thus relief soon becomes permanent and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles and is sold by O. T. Erhart with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh. that is, to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

SENT TO JAIL ON WEDDING DAY

BRIDE ELECT PROCURES RELEASE OF SWEETHEART

CREATED PANIC ON A CAR

Groom Goes Behind Bars for Friend's Gun Play—Out on Bond

JANESVILLE, Wis., May 14.—Arthur Prichard of Richland Center awoke yesterday morning with gloomy prospect of spending the day set for his wedding to Miss Myra Armstrong behind the bars

Prichard was arrested Saturday in company with George Miller of Janesville for creating a panic on a Janesville interurban car which they boarded after a jollification at Beloit. When south of this city Miller pulled a revolver and shot through the floor. Both men were put off. As the car started Miller is alleged to have fired five times at the wheels and sides of the car.

Miss Armstrong arrived at the jail at an early hour and persuaded the officers to release her betrothed who was implicated in the affair only to the extent of being in company with Miller. They left for Rockford on a noon car, expecting to have the nuptial knot tied.

Miller was held under $800 bail and his examination set for Wednesday morning. He is 16 years of age and threatens to commit suicide.

FEW JOIN DIETZ POSSE

HAYWARD, Wis., May 14.—Of about 100 men summoned to serve on a posse to arrest John Dietz, about twenty-five attended the meeting called by Sheriff Clark. No definite plan of action was discussed and the meeting was adjourned until Thursday to await the return of District Attorney McNamara, who is absent from town for further advice. It is said here that the attempt to capture Dietz and the Thornapple dam will prove a fiasco because public sympathy is on the side of the holder of the dam.

RETIRED FARMER SUICIDES

MILWAUKEE, May 14.—Despondent through continued ill health, Barney Cotter, 57 years of age, a retired farmer living with his brother, Gerald, at 36 Thirty-seventh street, hanged himself from a rafter in the barn at the rear of his brother's residence yesterday morning. The body was found by his brother. The dead man came here from Ozaukee county last January. He is survived by a son, two brothers, and a sister.

Needed a Mowing Machine.

He walked about the main thoroughfare of the little town awhile when he discovered one of those familiar red, white and blue globe topped posts. He had sighted his place, and the discovery was confirmed when his eye met the original legend, "Raise 10 cents or whiskers!"

There was but one tonsorial chair, and it was occupied by a stalwart fellow, evidently a blacksmith. Judging from the stubborn growth of beard, the patron could not have shaved but once a week on an average, for the growth was like a scrubbing brush. The barber made a lather, paced all over the countenance of the recumbent blacksmith, stropped the razor vigorously and sailed into his work. After he had struggled long and dangerously over his patron he felt constrained to say:

"Ain't I hurtin' you?"

"No," answered the Plutonian gentleman, still with energy.

"I seem to be workin' hard without gettin' there," commented the village barber further.

"Oh, just go on," encouraged the blacksmith. "You're doin' all right, for them you ain't cuttin' off you're cripplin' so much I guess they'll never grow again!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Limitations of Fame.

In Professor Knight's reminiscences of Tennyson it is related that on one occasion when the poet laureate was stopping at an inn in the island of Skye the landlord was asked if he knew who had been staying in his house, and on being informed that it was the poet Tennyson, he replied:

"Lor', to think o' that! And, sure, I thoucht he was shentleman."

At Stirling some one asked the landlord of the house where the poet was stopping:

"Do you ken who you had wi' you t'other night?"

"Naa, but he was a pleesant shentelman."

"It was Tennyson, the poet."

"And wha may he be?"

"Oh, he is a writer o' verses sich as ye see i' the papers!"

"Noo, to think o' that! Jeest a poobllic writer, and I gi'ed him ma best bedroom!"

But the charms of Mrs. Tennyson, her gracious manners, did not pass unnoticed, for the landlord said, "Oh, she was an angel!"

VOTE NAME TONIGHT

JOHN P. LINTON LODGE OF PYTHIANS LIKELY TO DROP OLD NAME

John P. Linton lodge, No. 109, of the Knights of Pythias, which has voted to merge with La Crosse lodge No. 27, meets tonight to take a final vote upon the adoption of a name and number.

It is said members of La Crosse lodge No. 27 insist that the name and number of the younger lodge be dropped and the older one adopted and that insistence upon the part of members of lodge No. 109 to have the old name maintained will result in the breaking off of the merger plans. It is pointed out, that La Crosse lodge has a great deal of prestige which would be lost with a change of name or number, and that there would be no benefits resultant upon such a change. It is thought likely members of lodge No. 109 will agree to go into the old lodge under the old name N hrdd under the old name La Crosse lodge No. 27.

EXTEND CAMPAIGN ANOTHER 7 DAYS

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING FUND IS SHORT SEVERAL THOUSAND

$92,971.39 IS SUBSCRIBED

And Before End of This Week Workers Expect to Make up Deficit and Complete Their Work

Last night at midnight the thirty day campaign to raise $100,000 for a new Y. M. C. A. building ended with $92,971.30 subscribed.

The executive committee after a session of about an hour last night decided to issue a statement to the press and the public that another week would be given to the campaign in order to try and induce several people to make up the deficit.

The committee issued the following statement:

"The campaign for the new Y. M. C. A. building has been in progress for the past thirty days and closes now with the result that nearly 2,000 pledges have been secured and $92,971.30 have been subscribed. That the committee has been disappointed goes without saying, and a different result might have been reached if some of our citizens who are not at home could have been interviewed personally.

"The workers and canvassers have worked faithfully and loyally and the citizens have responded liberally. Although the time limited for the campaign by the committee has expired it seems that so much success has attended the efforts of the canvassers that some method should be devised to reach the $100,000 mark.

"The committee believes that the relatively small deficit can be made up by a supplementary canvass to continue for another week. If the full amount of $100,000 shall not then be subscribed the project fails.

"The final result rests with the public and a generous response on the part of all is necessary to secure the building for our city.

"GEORGE H. RAY,
"President.
"G. W. BURTON,
"Chairman Executive Com.
"C. H. SCHWEIZER,
"Chairman Business Men's Committee.
"F. H. SCOFIELD,
"Chairman Young Men's Committee."

Every effort was made by the workers last night to reach the different people before midnight, and in many cases men were called out of bed to answer phone calls and in most cases they donated.

It is probable that the deficit will be made up during the next week and that La Crosse will soon be in possession of her new $100,000 Y. M. C. A.

WILL INSPECT SCHOOL WIRING

MARTIN TO SATISFY HIMSELF ON FORMER REPORT

MAY HAVE TO BE REWIRED

If it is Found to be Not in Conformity With Ordinance Improvements Will be Ordered

Electrical Inspector R. C. Martin will shortly make an inspection of the schools of the city and learn whether the complaints made of the wiring conditions are as bad as painted. If so, he will order the school authorities to comply with the ordinance and have the wiring done properly.

Some time ago underwriters from Chicago made an inspection of the school buildings and many complaints were registered with the school board and then to the council. On the strength of these complaints an ordinance was drawn and passed, creating the office of electrical inspector to take care of all such matters. Mr. Martin had a number of things on his hands at the present and as soon as possible he intends to make a thorough inspection of the schools himself.

WANT NEW DELIVERY

RESIDENTS OF DRESBACH AND VICINITY TO PETITION CONGRESSMAN

DRESBACH, Minn., May 14.—It is now thought that ere long the farmers residing on the rural route out of this place will be getting daily delivery instead of tri-weekly as is now the case.

On April 15 last the daily service was discontinued on account of not having sufficient number of pieces of mail handled per month.

It is the rule of the department that a rural route shall handle about 3,000 pieces of mail per month, and the route out of here has never had more than 1,500 pieces per month. Since the route was established there has been a slow but steady gain.

During the month of April the carrier, Geo. Moore, handled 2,260 peices of mail, so it is thought that the daily delivery may be re-established by July 1.

The patrons along the route are a thrifty, energetic class who desire a better service than they now are getting.

A petition, it is said, will be circulated soon among the patrons on the route to the congressman from this district, for his intercedence and influence for the re-establisnment of the daily service.

ASKS SUPPORT FOR GOODS

All of the Grocers Are Expected to Enter Into Agreement, and Rebuilding Will Start.

The regular monthly meeting of the La Crosse Retail Grocers' association will be held tonight at eight o'clock in Traveler's hall. There will be a smoker after the meeting.

The principal business of the meeting is to be the discussion of the new Montague Cracker factory.

Mr. Montague is to be present at the meeting and expects to ascertain whether if he rebuilds, he will have the support of the La Crosse grocers.

It is probable that many if not all of the grocers will sign an agreement, as they did three years ago to support the home factory.

If this is done Mr. Montague says the factory will be put up at La Crosse in short order.

SINK LAUNCHHOUSE

GEORGE MUELLER AND WILLING CROWD ON LEASED SPACE WITH THAT RESULT

The launch house of John Toeller, just below Spear's boat livery, was partly sunk yesterday afternoon, as a result of John Willing and George Mueller crowding their launch houses into space between the houses already in that vicinity.

In connection with the matter it is likely a legal point as to riparian rights will be raised. Several launch owners had leased and paid for space along the shore, from owners of the abutting property. Rights granted by these leases have been disregarded by Mueller and Willing, who have pushed into the rented spaces and it is said will resist efforts to oust them.

NEW TRADE JOURNAL

FIRST ISSUE OF PUBLICATION BY W. E. BARBER IS OUT THIS MORNING

The first issue of the Wisconsin and Northwest Trade Journal, the new monthly publication by Willis E. Barber was taken from the press today and promises to be a leader among the trade journals of the country.

The May issue consists of sixty-four pages, beside two color covers and is bristling with matter of interest to the trade. The publication is ably edited and is well supported by advertisers. It is profusely illustrated with original cartoons and halftone cuts and contains departments of interest to all the trade. Many of the special articles in the journal are written by experts in the various lines discussed and the paper should prove of great interest and benefit to store men.

Special attention is paid to La Crosse in the original issue, its advantages and resources being set forth in an attractive manner. Next month Publisher Barber will take up the city of Eau Claire, Wis., as a special feature.

The Wisconsin and Northwest Trade Journal fills a field here which should with the able management it is certain to have, should make it an instantaneous and continued success.

If there is nothing else to discuss, farmers can always start an argument about whether corn planted late or early makes the better crop.

The only time a boy has any use for a peace conference is when he realizes that it is up to him to cry "Enoughr!"

SNOW FOR TONIGHT

WEATHER MAN ALSO ALSO GIVES INTERESTING NEWS OF PENDING FROST

Tonight there is to be slight rain with snow flurries and colder. Tomorrow it will be fair with a rising temperature.

This is also the prediction for the main part of the rest of the state. Thunderstorms are also to be expected tonight.

The light temperature recorded today was 80 degrees and the lowest 44 degrees. There was an eight mile wind.

The general weather conditions, according to Observer Thompson, are as follows:

The low pressure area has drifted slowly eastward and now overlies the Mississippi valley and upper lake region; a second "low" appears north of Montana. Thunderstorms have occurred from Texas to Wisconsin, and light rain or snow has been general in the Missouri valley and eastern Rocky mountain districts. The temperatures have fallen between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains, and to below freezing as far south as Kansas. The weather conditions favor rain or snow flurries in this section tonight with lower temperature; Wednesday fair with rising temperature.

CENTERVILLE, Ia., May 14.—One of the greatest undertakings in this part of the state was completed Saturday, when the drainage ditch was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The ditch is five miles long and two feet wide and drains 15,000 acres in the Charlton river bottoms. Its total cost was $25,000.

Another ditch six miles long is under way to the Missouri line, and the two drains will connect. The proposed ditch will cost $35,000, but will drain thousands of acres of marshy lands now practically valueless.

VEGETABLES DROP; GRAIN ADVANCES

HOME GROWN ASPARAGUS ON MARKET TODAY

BUTTER GOES DOWN 2 CENTS

Flour Goes Up as Result of Advance in Wheat and Corn Feels the Movement

Vegetables have started to decline in price . Rhubarb dropped a cent and sells at 5 cents a pound, and home grown asparagus is now on the market selling at 10 cents per bunch.

Creamery butter has taken a drop of 2 cents, retailing at 30 cents a pound.

Cranberries are no longer on the market.

Patent flour has raised to $5 a barrel and straight to $4.80 per barrel, and will probably hold during the summer.

Winter wheat has raised to 65@70 cents and corn from 43 cents to 45@50 cents per bushel in sympathy with the wheat.

The Cashton Herald has the following to say in regard to winter wheat:

"Over half of the winter wheat in this locality is dead. The long continued cold days and frosty nights of the past two months was too much for it, when there was no protection. If the snow had stayed on the ground until April the chances are that it would not have been injured. A good many large fields of wheat on St. Mary's ridge are three-fourths gone and will be proved oved and probably corn planted in its place."

BURGLARS AT MINOT

MINOT, N. D., May 14.—A gang of professional yeggmen robbed the safe in the Minot Steam laundry of nearly $300. The robbery was not discovered until the proprietor came to open the office the next morning.

The safe had been blown with nitroglycerin and was completely shattered. The cracks in the door of the safe had been filled with soap and soiled linen had been piled up to deaden the noise.

The burglars apparently escaped along the railroad, for a number of checks and other papers which had been taken from the safe were found scattered along the right-of-way.

ARMY AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Preparations for Great Annual Event Now Being Made. Include Many Improvements.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 14.—A small army of men is at work on the Minnesota state fair grounds and its numbers will be considerably augmented this week as the work is developed. Secretary E. W. Randall is in charge of this army of labor and is working early and late to keep things moving. The board of managers of the fair will meet today to arrange for letting contracts for two more buildings. When these are under way and a crew of graders, a sewer gang and a few other companies of laborers are at work the fair grounds will have almost as many people assembled as on a good-sized day of fair week.

The new manufactures building is up almost to the cornice. The contractors have about fifty men at work on the structure and are pushing it rapidly to completion. The outer walls, now nearly completed, are of buff brick, while the inside is lined with white. The foundation and floor are of concrete.

Widen Half-mile Track.

Some fifty teams and about 100 men are at work on the grading of the half-mile track, the infield and the plaza in front of and west of the grandstand. The half-mile track is being brought up to true grade, widened five feet and surfaced with the best of material. All the space within the track will be leveled and will be perfectly adapted to all kinds of shows, military drill or the use of carriages and automobiles on big days at the fair.

The work of moving the barns west of the granstand has begun. Six buildings are to be moved to make room for the extended plaza and two new speed barns will add largely to the stall capacity for race horses.

SCHOOL MA'AM USES POKER

Pretty Miss Teaching Rural School Gets Raise in Salary.

Reinbeck, Iowa, boasts of a nineteen year old school ma'am, pretty at that and one who can stand for her rights. A big boy, Will Albright, evidently a chip of the old block, was sent home for misconduct. Next day Albright with blood in his eye, thought it would be alright to take Miss Lillian Smith down "a peg or two." So he presented himself at the school room door. But Miss Smith wisely kept him in the hall. Close by was a stove and a poker. The father became very abusive and tried to force his way into the room, whereupon Miss Smith seized the poker and belabored the parent about the shoulders, raining blow after blow until he was forced to beat a hasty retreat, taking his son with him. Thereupon Miss Smith calmly took up the routine of her duties. There has been no misbehavior in the school room since. Whispering is almost forgotten, gum chewing is a lost art, and such deviltry as throwing spitballs is undreamed of.

The affair caused so much gossip that the school board held a special meeting to investigate the case. After hearing all of the testimony the board unanimously voted to increase Miss Smith's salary from $30 to $50 a month, and at the conclusion of the board meeting a delegation of citizens presented her with a diamond ring.

INDIAN PORTRAIT OF WASHINGTON.

PIERRE, S. D., May 14.—Doane Robinson, secretary of the State Historical society, has been presented with a specimen for the society collection, which is either the work of some of the early surveying forces in the state or that of some Indian attempting to copy the features of some white man evidently from a medal. The stone was picked up on a farm in Hanson county which is owned by P. F. Wichham, and by that gentleman presented to the society.

The exhibit is in the shape of a small limestone boulder, one side of which has been worn down smooth, and on this is sketched the outline of a face of a man with his hair done in a queue, and the outline is such that it is believed to have been an attempt to secure a likeness of Washington from a medal.

STILLWATER MEN QUIT LIGHT CO.

AFFAIRS OF UPRIVER CONCERN REACH ACUTE STAGE

OUTSIDE CONTROL IS CAUSE

Expert Is Investigating Plant for the Bondholders as Result of the Dissatisfaction

STILLWATER, Minn., May 14.—The affairs of the Stillwater Gas & Electric company have reached an acute stage because of the financial management of the Chicago Gas & Investment company, which owns the plant here and similar plants in a number of cities. Local men interested in the plant here became dissatisfied with a state of affairs which shows that the plant here is affording a big revenue and the controlling company allowed machinery for the new electric substation to be taken back to the factory at Erie, Pa., after being partly put in position.

E. L. Hospus, formerly state senator, was president of the local company. He sent in his resignation as president and director and R. S. Davis, the banker, also resigned as a director. These resignations have been accepted, but no successors named. Eastern men interested in the bonds floated by the Chicago concern sent A. L. Drum of Chicago, a consulting engineer, here to look over the plant and also the Apple River Power company plant, which furnishes electricity to the local concern. He is preparing a report on the condition of things here. He found good buildings and good service, but will report at a meeting to be held in a few days, and it is said arrangements will be made for a different management of the local plants, both gas and electrical.

PRAYS FIRST; THEN SUICIDES

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., May 14.—Just after offering up a fervent prayer for the salvation of her soul, and while she still knelt in reverent attitude, Miss Belle Wilson, a beautiful young woman, sent a bullet crashing through her brain and died instantly

She left this note:

"I love you, mother, good-bye. God forgives much. He knows my burdens. I know that he will forgive me; for he has said, 'He that cometh unto me I will in nowise cast out.' I love you, Mrs. Scarr, you have been kind and good to me. I am going home. I am glad I die a Presbyterian. Mr. Wheeler, I want you to preach my funeral sermon. Love to all. Good-by."

Mrs. Scarr was the woman with whom the girl made her home and Mr. Weeler was the minister of the church which she attended. It is believed that the mind of the young woman had become unbalanced by religious excitement.

BIG DAM FOR POWER

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., May 14.—The largest dam in western Minnesota is about to be constructed just west of this city in what is known as Dayton hollow, where the Otter Tail river, up to this point a rapid, turbulent stream, receives the waters of the Pelican and passes between two hills and out on the flats of Wilkins county. The dam will be put in by Vernon A. Wright, whose father was the original townsite proprietor here, and F. G. Barrows, a well known capitalist. It will have a head of approximately forty feet and will develop 2,000 horse power. The cost will be about $100,000, and electric transmission lines will be run into this city to furnish power for factory purposes, while other lines will be run westward to furnish both light and power to a number of villages, and possibly to Wahpeton and Breckenridge, although this is not definitely decided.

Fergus Falls has five dams at the present time, and the city is planning to build a new one to supply the municipal electric light plant with power.

FELL INTO FIRE

Rush City Man Goes to Sleep and Wakes up in Glowing Furnace —At Hospital

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 14.—Herbert Broom, 3111 Second avenue south, superintendent of the Electric Light company at Rush City, Minn., was taken to the Northwestern hospital yesterday suffering from severe burns sustained in a peculiar manner in a hotel at Rush City.

Brown was seated in front of an open fireplace, when he went to sleep and fell into the fireplace. The fall stunned him and he laid on the glowing coals for some time before he was discovered. He is badly burned about the head, shoulders and arms, but will recover.

JOHN A. MATTHEWS DEAD

WINONA, Minn., May 14.—John A. Matthews, a pioneer resident of this city who served four terms as mayor of Winona in the '60's and '70's, died yesterday, aged 83. He came to Minnesota in 1855 from Pennsylvania.

ST. PAUL TURNVEREIN ROBBED

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 14.—A sneak thief got into the rooms of the Turnverein St. Paul, Wabasha street and Summit avenue, Saturday evening and stole $40 from one of the lockers. The robbery was reported to the police, and detectives are working on the case.

It is thought that the thief secreted himself in the building and afterwards escaped through a window.

ROOSEVELT

wisdom and real astuteness. He burst on Washington's ken when La Folette came here to be senator. He had not been around the capital long before Washington began to understand more of La Follette's political methods than it had ever known before.

Elkin vs. Penrose

Pennsylvania is being watched by the Taft managers with great care. There has been serious suggestion of putting forward Justice John P. Elkin as a candidate for Penrose's seat in the senate, and making him the new state boss. The Penrose men say it is most ridiculous, but their opponents are confident that if the president should take up the effort he would succeed. That would put Pennsylvania where it could be controlled. There would be no danger of a Knox movement taking it away from the Roosevelt-Taft column and voting it at the end for some representative of an anti-Roosevelt combination. Senator Penrose is watching the White house just as sharply as the administration people are watching him, and he proposes to make no costly mistake if he can avoid it. But like all the anti-Roosevelt politicians, he is in terror because of the fearful uncertainty as to where the president may "break out next." Mr. Roosevelt never does the expected. He generally doesn't do it at the expected time. He recognizes no rules of the game, and he has won, so long and so regularly, that it is small wonder he has the lesser politicans terrorized.

May Ditch Uncle Joe

Governor Hughes and Uncle Joe Cannon are two men whom to discipline is not easy. Neither shows a disposition to come back to the reservation and give up his weapons. Each presents the possibility of a big state going against the administration's plans. The speaker may be jarred by the intimation that has gone forth that, unless he is good, he will be deprived of his scepter and czardom. Despite confident insistence by his supporters that nobody could beat him, it is well known that the house is full of people who don't like him, and who would, if the president should call them, be glad to take up a new man. Burton of Ohio is of course the favorite possibility in all discussions of such a program. With Uncle Joe either scared into submission, or with him deprived of the speakership, the opposition's back would be broken in Illinois; and it is a good surmise that one or the other of these plans will be used with him.

Hughes the Danger

Hughes looks today like the one real reliance and hope of the opposition to the Roosevelt-Taft program. He is independent enough to suit the most independent. He has accomplished things. He has proved that he has fight and staying qualities. He is a good campaigner. He is the same sort of progressive as Roosevelt. And he is without certain weaknesses which the politicians regard as menacing republican success in case Taft is nominated.

The Nigger in the Fence

Baltimore City went democratic by a big majority the other day, and all analyses of the result agree that it was because the colored republicans either remained away from the polls, or voted for the democrat. Why? Brownsville. That's all.

Labor Element Angry

Then there is the labor vote. From many states come reports which insist that Taft's anti-labor injunctions, together with the Debs-Meyer-Haywood-Harriman letters, have so far aroused suspicion among the laboring people, that Taft would be certain to suffer severe losses. One of the plans under consideration, indeed, by the anti-Taft forces, is to exploit these issues before the delegates are chosen and frighten the country away from nominating him. Perhaps it can be done; but it doesn't look very probable at present.

COREY

dence in Ellis confirmed.

Corey considered most solid man in the great steel trust—model of men, well made because self-made. Written up in magazine article as having "no fad except his love for home."

Sensation in steel trust. Charley Schwab, after cutting swath, compelled to retire, from presidency. Corey to hold reins—Corey, the steady, the domestic.

Another stir. Corey at 35 becomes actual head of the trust, salary $50,000 a year. A safe man this, a hard head, a man with no nonsense about him and devoted to a fine wife at home, a wife who helped make him.

IV—RELAXATION

At zenith of career, W. E. Corey unbends. Sighs for New York. Talks of residence there. Halts in the mad race for wealth and prestige to look around.

Show in town. "The Mocking Bird," musical comedy. Bunch of steel set attend. Mabelle Gilman, star in show, gay, youthful. Well, such things happen. An introduction.

Dinner after the show. Swimming party at a natatorium. A Pittsburg function. Millionaires cutting loose.

Wives at home. Laura, the cherished in the days of old, one of them, forgotten.

V—INFATUATION

Social stir in New York. Magazine picture of Mabelle Gilman, actress, in her Paris boudoir. Very interesting from a dramatic viewpoint.

But what is this? Photo of a man on an easel. Who's the man? Looks like W. E. Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation.

Get a magnifying glass. It's he! Old rumor recalled.

Estrangement in the magnificent Corey home in Pittsburg. Mrs. Corey out in Nevada to get a divorce. Corey will not resist divorce.

Straight-laced relatives of Corey in Braddock astonished and outraged. Corey imperturbable. Wife too old-fashioned.

VI—THE CLIMAX

Fifth avenue, New York, palace rented by Corey, steel magnate, for "Mr and Mrs. Corey." Not for Laura. Laura has got a divorce. Laura is in the discard. Bride is Mabelle Gilman, the butterfly, the "little playmate," more "suited to his station in life."

Mansion full of carvings and art treasures and regal decorations.

Mansion for the cooing doves a contrast to the four-room frame cottage in Braddock, Pa., where nearly a score of years ago the husband's little wife waited for her grimy husband's coming, and gave him the priceless kiss of a first love.

There is something wrong with the minister who preaches eternal happiness and its unable to generate a smile.

Home Care in Consumption

It has been decided by the Charity Organization of New York city that the more important part of the consumption problem is in the care of the many victims of the disease in the early stages rather than in the cure of the few in the advanced stages.

Those in the early stage of consumption must be built up so that the waste made by the disease will be repaired, and to this end physicians prescribe Father John's Medicine, which contains the food elements required to build up the body, to make strength and to soothe throat and lungs.

It is because of this power to repair wasted tissues and cure throat and lung troubles that Father John's Medicine has been so successful in preventing consumptipn, and this is why it is endorsed by physicians and hospitals for more than 50 years.

SOCIETY

BIRTHDAY DINNER AT THE STODDARD HOTEL

There was a pleasant event at the Stoddard Sunday evening when Mrs. Augusta Metzgar entertained at a dinner of twenty covers in honor of her eightieth birthday. The hostess in spite of her age is younger than many whose years have not passed the half century mark and her eye is as bright and her step as elastic. She enters into the enjoyment of events of the day and takes keen interest in all that takes place. Although she calls La Crosse her home she spends much time in visiting her children who are living in other cities. An interesting feature of the banquet was a poem which was written by Mr. Alfred Lagenbach and which was read by Mrs. Adolph Candrian. Mrs. Metzgar was also presented with a basket containing eighty jacqueminot roses in honor of the occasion.

The guests present were Mesdames Adolph Candrian, Fred Tillman, John Baenzinger, Fred Molitor, Henry Gund, Albert Platz, Max Platz, John Pamperin, L. Runkel, Carl Runkel, L. Pammell, Fred Dittman, C. Bayer, M. Funk, Carl Kurenacker, C. F. Segelke, Dora Ewe and Miss Guildermann.
